An ancient Egyptian signet ring, probably much like the one which Pharaoh gave to Joseph. Note the hieroglyphics carved on it, which become a signature when pressed on clay. This ring depicts Akhenaten and Nefertiti as earth and sky gods standing below the sun and two sacred cobras.

When the Israelites turned away from the Lord to worship a golden calf, they were doing what their Egyptian neighbors had done many times before. Cow and bull figures were among several deities worshipped by the Egyptians. This bronze bull's head, an ornament for a lyre, is Sumerian and dates from around 2500 B.C.

AN UNPARALLELED, USER-FRIENDLY, FAMILY RESOURCE!

Welcome

AS I WRITE I AM SELF-QUARANTINED while our office folks are, too. I hope as you read this, our experience—which is almost certainly yours—is in the rearview mirror. The experience has been a sobering wake-up call. The world in which we live can be upset in a place far from most of us and affect not only us but the entire world. The fallout will be substantial, we hope not cataclysmic. Has there ever been a time when wise godly leadership was more important?

You may have heard me say that I believe classical education is the educational pearl of great price. And I really believe it. Laurie and I would have done anything to get such an education for our kids. We hope you will, too. It is how they will learn best. From history they will learn to avoid past mistakes; they will learn to reason, so they can think through complexities not previously experienced; and they'll learn to communicate winsomely, with great Christian maturity and wisdom, in order to lead effectively.

TODAY, MORE THAN EVER, YOUR KIDS NEED A CLASSICAL EDUCATION FROM A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW.

I've typically used this space to tell you what's new, as well.

We are so excited about this one that we're pinching ourselves to make sure we're not dreaming: We've secured the right to publish Journey through the Bible. This text brings the Bible to life for young ones.

We've also expanded our online course offerings extensively. There are far more summer class offerings and, as our headmaster says, what better time to help kids get a jump on the school year. We've added Novare Science and Math-U-See to our live course offerings (and our curriculum offerings). Both curricula serve a critical part for certain student needs. It's been wonderful to get to a scale where we can have multiple curricular tracks. Most schools can't.

We're also releasing the second year of our Phonics App and the second edition of the print version. Young ones learning to read will thrive from using them. Four-year-olds, even some that are three, are reading well with them.

We enjoy hearing from you and about how we can better serve you, so tell us your story at Info@VeritasPress.com. It's such a blessing to hear what God's doing with your children, and we cherish every way we can be a part of that.

What Educational Approach is Best for Your Children?

YOUR APPROACH

What approach are you using with your children? Is it working? Does it work equally well with each of them? Twenty-five years ago, we didn't even know to ask these questions, so don't feel bad if you haven't given them serious thought, either. But by the grace of God, something happened that caused us to ask questions about the education of our children. Maybe your reading this is an act of Providence in your life.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

Doesn't it seem there ought to be an ideal way for children to learn? This was a nagging thought for us, but we had no answers. That is, until we learned of classical education from a Christian worldview. The idea of an education that taught children in a way that was in line with how God made children (and all of us, for that matter) to learn was very attractive. What's more, this method is rigorous and has a long history of proven results.

Classical education takes a three-fold approach. This trivium, which it is frequently called, is Latin for "where three roads meet" and lays out three stages of learning: grammar, dialectic (or logic), and rhetoric. The genius of classical education—why it works so well—is because it teaches "with the grain" of how children develop. When they're young, they enjoy memorizing and learning lots of things. The junior high years find them interested in challenging, arguing, and wanting to understand how things might relate to each other. During the senior high years, they become more concerned with how they are perceived, wanting to be articulate and persuasive in winsome ways. Teaching according to their God-given tendencies proves to be remarkably effective, not to mention that it trains children to learn for themselves—as life-long learners.

Classical education from Veritas intends to be academically rigorous, distinctively Christian, and methodologically aligned with how God made us to learn. Students of our Classical Christian Education curriculum assimilate:

GODLY PRINCIPLES • CRITICAL THINKING SKILLS • CHRIST-CENTERED VALUES
 INTEGRATED KNOWLEDGE • GOD-GIVEN POTENTIAL

... and much more than today's modern education.

CLASSICAL EDUCATION IS THE BEST WAY TO TEACH:

HOW TO LEARN

In the Grammar Stage (K-6):
Memorization
Mimicking Language
Mastering facts

HOW TO THINK

In the Dialectic Stage (7-9):
Argumentation
Logic
Reasoning
How/Why

HOW TO COMMUNICATE

In the Rhetoric Stage (10-12):
Communicative
Poetic
Articulate
Self-aware

Online learning made fun!

Learning history and Bible shouldn't be boring. It should be exciting! Our Self-Paced courses are the perfect solution for busy homeschool families that want to take the stress out of homeschooling with a curriculum that kids love.

“These courses have been the highlight of our homeschooling days for the past 3 years! My son listens to parts of the lessons over again after school to hear the jokes and play the games. I have learned the history I never learned in school.”

—Barbara W.

WHY CHOOSE SELF-PACED?

- ✓ Have one less subject to teach
- ✓ Assignments and grades built into the program
- ✓ Can see your student's progress at all times
- ✓ Have kids who are excited to learn
- ✓ Free up more time in your day
- ✓ Progress at your student's pace
- ✓ Enjoy review that is as fun as a video game

HISTORY

An engaging way to learn history, with a talking sphinx, totem pole, and other characters. Simply the best way for younger kids to learn history.

BIBLE

The Bible comes to life with characters, actors, interactions and games. Students will learn the Bible and have fun doing it. Parents will, too.

OMNIBUS

The Great Books courses covering history, theology and literature, all from a biblical worldview. Thought-provoking, engaging and very timely.

History and Bible courses are available for grades 2–6 and Omnibus (Humanities) for grades 7–12. We believe in our Self-Paced Courses so much, that if you're not satisfied with them for any reason, you can return them for a full refund within 90 days of purchase.

3 Ways to Learn with Veritas Press

WITH THE GRAIN

Each child has a unique learning style. At Veritas, not only do we use the time-tested methods of classical education, but we recognize the uniqueness of each child and each family. So, whether a child is a visual learner, auditory learner, read/write learner, or kinesthetic learner (think vark), we want to teach them “with the grain.” They’ll love it and succeed with our three ways to learn.

YOU TEACH

Parent-taught curriculum with scripted lesson plans and the award winning and proven Veritas Curriculum. The scripted lesson plans are designed to help parents plan, teach, and organize schooling for any subject.

SELF-PACED

Online History, Bible, and Omnibus courses, combining engaging videos, interactive exercises, fun games, and built-in quizzes and exams that create a stress-free option for parents needing to take some of the load off of teaching yet keep children excited and eager to learn. Self-Paced courses can be done anytime and anywhere you have an internet connection.

LIVE ONLINE

Classes taught by expert teachers in the Veritas Virtual Classroom. Classes are available for every subject. Live Online classes help parents who are seeking help teaching. You may want to reduce your load or benefit from expert teachers to help you. For either reason, you will enjoy the peace of mind that your children will reach their ultimate potential.

Grammar Overview (K–6th)

For decades Veritas has been helping return academic standards back to what they were historically and to what can be observed internationally. The chart below provides what we recommend. We hope you'll join us. Students raised on this standard have consistently excelled. They read books, write papers, tackle math concepts, and think in ways well beyond their peers. Use the chart to see grade-level recommendations at a glance. If the recommendation doesn't fit, just use the suggestion for the grade above or below.

Drawing With Children

Mona Brookes

Mona Brookes was hired by Gertrude Dietz, the director of a preschool, to teach realistic drawing to 100 four- and five-year-olds. When she sought curricula, she found none. About her experience she said, "Thank goodness Gertrude and I were ignorant of the prevailing philosophy that said you shouldn't give young children any guided instruction in the field of drawing. We assumed it was acceptable to give basic instruction in drawing, since this was true for music, dance, and all the other artistic subjects." With her neighbor, Elliot Day, a composer, she broke down the basic components of vision as one would break down a musical composition. This led to devising an "alphabet of shape" that consisted of five basic elements. Any object that a student wants to draw can be simply analyzed in terms of how these five elements of shape are combined. The result is every child can achieve realistic representation of subjects to be drawn.

There is no better way to teach your child to reproduce with his own hand the beauty of God's creation. This book teaches the grammar of art and is useful for any age level, but particularly K-6th grade. Soft 272p #435330 $16.95

Ned Bustard and Amy Clark
We'd like to introduce you to Bede... a timeline who strongly resembles a ball of yarn. This lovable character introduces young children to the basics of history in a fun way—once a week, all year long. Topics include: how a timeline works, family history, the history of holidays (Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, etc.), the history of toys, maritime history, the history of sports, music history, the history of dresses, and more. Even a little Church history is included! Imagine how fun it is to learn about timelines using the fairy tale Goldilocks and the Three Bears? A clear way to teach the importance of timelines and how God works in time. A second volume is available, too. (see page 17). This is a home run. ★★★★★ Soft 69p eBook available #000090 $15.00

Nancy Larson
This is the friendliest and most thorough math program available. Any student can master the grammar of math easily with Saxon's "incremental approach." We do find it necessary and advisable to use the program ahead of the stated grade level—something John Saxon himself told us he supported—because children can handle it easily.

In using this program at this age you should realize that the text assumes students will read the problems. You may need to read problems to the students.

This problem occurs with first graders, too, so there is no need for alarm.

 Phonics Museum

Marlin & Laurie Detweiler, Ned Bustard, and Diane Coleman
 The Phonics Museum is an award-winning program that will have your child read a simple book in a few short weeks. Join Percival, a boy knight, as he takes children through an art museum, learning letters and sounds along the way. Your children will want to keep learning as they set out on this adventure. Using classical, time-proven methods, your child will learn to love reading.

Easy-to-follow scripted teacher's manuals give you everything you need to teach with confidence. Also included are alphabet flashcards using fine art, games, music, worksheets, great stories, art projects, and much more—all to teach using a comprehensive multi-sensory approach. Phonics Museum goes beyond simply teaching letter sounds and reading skills. This powerful program will inspire your child with a life-long love for learning! Legends & Leagues: Or Mr. Tardy Goes from Here to There

A CHILD'S INTRODUCTION TO GEOGRAPHY

Ned Bustard

Poor Elmo Tardy is always getting lost. But one day Tardy stumbles into the over-stuffed office of Legends & Leagues, Ltd. There he meets the lanky Mr. Meridian Longitude and the stout Mr. Azimuth Latitude—two cheery fellows who teach Mr. Tardy about the concepts of maps, points of the compass, geographic formations and more. Students will laugh and learn as Tardy is taught all he needs to know to get from Here to There. Using the workbook, students can apply what Mr. Tardy learned. Includes cut and paste state maps, world maps, coloring pages, and many more. A great introduction to geography. And the fun doesn't stop with this book. Four additional levels recount the further adventures of Longitude and Latitude. See pages 22, 31, 38, and 46.

Shurley English I

Brenda Shurley

The most astounding and effective grammar program available. We love that Shurley English program!

- Who loves that Shurley English program? We —subject pronoun
- What is being said about we? We love
—verb
- We love what? program verify the noun.
Does program mean the same thing as we?
No—direct object verb transitive
- What kind of program? English—adjective
- What kind of program? Shurley—adjective
- Which program? that—adjective Subject noun, verb transitive, direct object, pattern two. Check.
- Verb transitive. Check again.
No—prepositional phrases.
- !—strong feeling exclamatory sentence.
- Go back to the verb. Divide the complete subject from the complete predicate.

The children also learn jingles to memorize the parts of speech, enabling and encouraging them to chant till they start dreaming grammar lessons. This program is easy to use and you will not believe what your children (and often the parents) will learn!

Author Brenda Shurley says, "The Shurley Method uses repetition, fun, student/teacher interaction, and a concrete set of questions about each word in a sentence to teach students how all the parts of a sentence fit together. It is important to study how all the parts of a sentence fit together because students need to understand sentence structure in order to speak and write successfully."

For best results and ease to the teacher we recommend purchasing the Kit (which includes the teacher's manual, one student workbook, and instructional CD) and the practice booklet. Consider the practice set (practice booklet and practice CD) if you wish to have the student work independently.

The success students realize with the Phonics Museum is unparalleled. Now, the second edition works seamlessly with the Kindergarten edition and the Phonics Museum App (available at PhonicsMuseum.com). Your child will not only learn to read quickly but will also love the process. You will, too. Rebecca G. of Charlotte, N.C., writes: "I want my children to be exposed to the arts and music and to love learning. . . . Thank you so much for writing a program that not only appeals to the child, but also to my adult tastes and desires. Your program has the elements that I would put into a program if I would have the time and the abilities to write a program for my children. And I can trust the people who have written it as well." The Phonics Museum incorporates the very best time-tested techniques of several hundred years in a fun history- and art-based program that parents, teachers, and children will be drawn to again and again. First Favorites

Laurie Detweiler

For those seeking to lay a firm foundation for a life-long love of books, look no further. These guides contain all the questions and activities needed to fan into flame a student's passion for good literature.

The books covered represent all that is good about children's literature. A great next step after finishing the the Phonics Museum. This is a magical time in the student's reading journey, and these collections of books will nurture a deep love for good books.

In Volume 1 students are given developmentally tailored comprehension questions and, among other things, directions for a marshmallow-and-peanut butter jar easy chair! Volume 2 includes reading comprehension questions that are building in difficulty, and many "extras" as well. Both have handwriting exercises, a clear icon system for teachers to follow, and simple instructions for students to foster independent work. eBooks available

History of Art: Creation to Contemporary

Ned Bustard

God made us creative and on Mount Sinai gave instructions on how to use art. Virtually all cultures have made art, art that reveals its hopes, dreams, and beliefs. And by studying the art of past cultures, we can learn something about ourselves in the present. Fully integrated with the Veritas History Series (yet able to stand on its own), this art history program was designed to fill one year but is quite flexible.

This distinctively Christian overview of art history covers well-known works of art like Mona Lisa and American Gothic and also takes time to focus on art by Christians and about the Christian faith. Two great works of art are on nearly all of the 32 flashcards, along with information about each art movement studied. The full-color workbook contains comprehension questions, crafts, activities, readings, and features on artists of the faith. Call us for school and quantity pricing. Old Testament and Ancient Egypt History Series

Marlin and Laurie Detweiler, G. Tyler and Emily Fischer

For years we have taught history in a chronological fashion, integrating biblical history with world history. At the core of the program are 32 flashcards per year over five years, covering 160 events from Creation to today, with music that helps children quickly learn the timeline of these events. This award-winning program also includes a teacher's manual, a music CD to learn the timeline, and additional books as resources to teach the material. You can still use the program this way. In this series they learn the most important events from Creation to the Fall of Egypt.

But we have a far more engaging way to teach the material. Our self-paced web-based program is clearly the best way to learn history. Actors and animated characters will teach through the 32 events. Games, art, and frequent interactions will have them begging for more. All the worksheets and quizzes are in the course and graded for you. Kids love it.

We also recommend that you use one of the optional literature kits to enhance your child's learning. There are two kits available depending on the reading level of your child.

■ Pages of History Vol. 1: Secrets of the Ancients

Bruce Etter and Lexi Detweiler

George Grant writes, "History is first and foremost, His Story. Alas, these days it is rarely told as a Story, and even less as His. That is why I am so enthusiastic about this project. Pages of History is faithful both to our rich Christian story-telling tradition and to our providential God whose stories these are in the first place." Perfect for family story time or individual study, Pages of History transports the reader through the timeline of the world—providing a view of God's work in every age. In this exciting first volume two boys travel from Creation through the Reformation. Their adventures in history will captivate readers young and old. The book features an unapologetic Christian worldview and an engaging approach to classical teaching while covering 96 major events, captivatingly reinforcing all of the first three series in the Veritas Press history in the format of a compelling story. Every fifth lesson is a "personal spelling" test using words from the student's own writing or vocabulary. Students study independently, using a CD (headphones are helpful) and practicing the ten-minute lesson each day by taking the auditory "test" again and again until a perfect score is achieved. Creating a high repetition of auditory input, this "classical" approach is the best way for most children to learn spelling rules and words. Numerous online helps are available. Pinocchio

C. Collodi

"Once upon a time there was a piece of wood. It was not an expensive piece of wood. Far from it. Just a common block of firewood, one of those thick, solid logs that are put on the fire in winter to make cold rooms cozy and warm..."

This story of a little wooden puppet on his journey to becoming a real boy will be a step up in their reading level but will be enjoyed thoroughly. The guide will take you through Pinocchio's changes with comprehension questions and activities to teach the book effectively, including directions for a marionette using a tissue box, soap boxes, and a clothes hanger!

The Velveteen Rabbit

Margery Williams

"When a child loves you for a long, long time, not just to play with, but REALLY loves you, then you become Real. It doesn't happen all at once. You become. It takes a long time. Generally, by the time you are Real, most of your hair has been loved off, and your eyes drop out and you get loose in the joints and very shabby. But these things don't matter at all, because once you are Real you can't be ugly except to people who don't understand." A must read for all. (2) Soft 40p

2ND MEMORY PERIOD

Years ago on a school visit we had the opportunity to observe students reciting seemingly endless amounts of material that they had memorized. We were struck with the fact that this is a crucial, if not the key, ingredient to the Grammar Stage of classical Christian education. We learned that these students simply spent a small amount of time each day going through a long list of things to commit to memory. It is amazing what can be memorized in twenty minutes a day. Below, find important materials used that are not found elsewhere in the catalog. Not included here are the Bible and history songs, geography songs, grammar chants, Latin chants, and math memory songs.

Lyrical Life Science
 "Promoting scientific literacy through song" is how these clever folks describe this fabulous tool. We don't teach science in grammar school—meaningful science requires certain language and mathematical mastery. Yet scientific memorization is important, and this is the tool. Sing "Oh Bacteria" instead of "Oh Suzanna" and "Cold Blooded Vertebrates" instead of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." Entertain the grandparents at Thanksgiving for some great laughs. CD, text, and workbook.

The Westminster Shorter Catechism Songs
 Holly Dutton
 When our boys were young we had them memorize all 107 answers to the Shorter Catechism. Why? Because the questions and answers provide a clear and concise, yet comprehensive, statement of doctrine and beliefs of Christianity—clarity of what they believe that will benefit them all their lives. We've also always been huge proponents of memorizing with music. Imagine our delight when we discovered the clear pronunciation and simple melodic tunes of Dutton's production. We know that you'll love all four audio CDs. We wish we'd had them.

Covering 32 events from the books of Judges through Second Kings, students will learn about the early years of the people of Israel to the exile to Babylon. With the self-paced course, through engaging video, games and interactions, children follow young Levi, whose harebrained inventions often don't turn out the way he expects, along with his family and friends, like Vasko the frog and Pallu the lovable badger. Designed the same way as our history series, described on page 24, our Bible series applies the same time-proven classical method to studying the story of Redemption. New Testament, Greece and Rome, History Series

Marlin and Laurie Detweiler
G. Tyler and Emily Fischer

This series starts with civilizations that developed in ancient Greece. It then covers Greece, Rome, and New Testament events that coincide with the timeframe—32 events in all. Children learn biblically-recorded history alongside non-biblically-recorded history in a remarkable way to understand these important times. The self-paced course uses period characters—real and animated—to lead the learning. We think (and hear frequently) that it's the most effective way to learn. The History Flashcards are a must for the Self-Paced course, and there's optional historical fiction. Whether you use the Self-Paced or You Teach option, you'll be amazed at the learning of your students.

Aaron Larsen and Christopher Perin
Rigorous, flexible, comprehensive, easily taught, organized. These are just a few words that describe this brilliant curriculum. Of course, incorporating Veritas Press History and Shurley English methods into its teaching doesn't hurt. Teach it yourself or use the three DVDs and one CD to do the teaching. And the Activity Book is a sure way to have students ask for more Latin today. Uses ecclesiastical or classical pronunciation.

Friendly to teachers, parents, and students who have no background in Latin. Written so the teacher can learn along with the student. Thirty lessons to be covered in one year. The audio CD or tape walks you through each lesson. Our children have benefitted greatly from it. A starting point, or it can follow Prima Latina. Uses ecclesiastical pronunciation, which is our preference.

Additional supplements to this program may be found on our web site. They include Flashcards, The Book of Roots, Ludere Latine I, and Ancient Civilization Wall Maps.

■ Alice in Wonderland

Lewis Carroll

"Would you tell me, please, which way I ought to go from here?"

"That depends a good deal on where you want to get to," said the Cat.

"I don't much care where," said Alice.

"Then it doesn't matter which way you go," said the Cat.

"—so long as I get SOMEWHERE,"

Alice added as an explanation.

"Oh, you're sure to do that," said the Cat, "if you only walk long enough."

First published in 1865, this crazy classic continues to delight children and adults alike. In this guide to Alice you will find a croquet game, a disappearing cat, practical questions and (in a very unWonderland way) helpful answers along with additional information to help you understand the madness of it all.

Chronicles to Malachi

Marlin and Laurie Detweiler
G. Tyler and Emily Fischer

You want a self-paced course for this, and we're sorry we don't have it yet (or even a forecasted date). That doesn't mean your children should overlook studying these important books of the Bible.

One of our favorite verses is found in Micah 6:8. You need to teach the whole Bible to develop the whole child. Sadly, it won't be as easy as self-paced course, but it will be worth it. Using the cards, memory song, and teacher's manual, students study 32 events, learning about the major and minor prophets, the sufferings of Job, and how these books lead to the coming Messiah. Designed the same way as our history series, described on page 24.

Middle Ages, Renaissance, and Reformation History Series

Marlin and Laurie Detweiler,

G. Tyler and Emily Fischer

The Dark Ages? Hardly!

They're neither unknown nor backward. This is a crucial period to study, as it connects us to biblical times and ancient civilizations. Again the course covers 32 events, and students can learn Self-Paced or You Teach. Colorful historical characters from Augustine to Benedict to Alfred to Marco Polo to Gutenberg to Luther fill the landscape of this remarkable period. History flashcards are crucial for the Self-Paced (which we recommend), historical fiction is optional. This period, more than any other, opened our eyes to how God has been at work—not because other periods were less eventful, but because we bought the modern lie of this period being backward and unknown. Read more about the series on page 24. eBooks and MP3s available

■ Dangerous Journey

John Bunyan, Oliver Hunkin

A world famous edition of Bunyan's classic tale A Pilgrim's Progress. Most of the brilliant illustrations are full- or double-page spreads with the text in a large, elegant typeface arranged in a variety of patterns around them. Gloomy dungeons, dark forests, black rivers and gray-clouded skies sustain the mood of danger and hardship. Useful for a variety of ages, this is one of the few books well worth reading in a children's edition. The comprehension guide has students make a "lift-the-flap" travel log of the journey to discuss the major themes of the Christian faith presented in the story. There are questions for every chapter, room to write in the answers, and solutions in the back.

Macbeth

William Shakespeare

Macbeth, Shakespeare's shortest tragedy, tells the story of a brave Scottish general who receives a prophecy from a trio of witches that one day he will be king. Murder, guilt, and madness fill this tale. When you are studying the Renaissance why not have your students perform this famous play? We did and the children loved it! In fact, our son Travis (then 11) told another of our sons, Parker (then 9), to "stop telling those odious tyrant lies" while attempting to settle on a choice of cereal at the store. (3) Soft 211p

Gospels Bible Series

Marlin and Laurie Detweiler,
G. Tyler and Emily Fischer

We think of the Gospels as the heart of the Bible. Stories about Jesus dominate much of our teaching—and for very good reason. This series incorporates those stories, but it does more. Through the 32 events studied, students will learn to sequence events, to see how the four Gospels parallel each other and come to grips with the most influential 33 years in all of history. Again, the Self-Paced options with the Bible cards is ours and most Veritas Families' favorite approach. You Teach is an option, too. But choose one. Don't make the mistake we see too often—that a merely devotional approach will produce adequate Bible learning.

Ned Bustard

By stepping into their maps Meridian Longitude and Azimuth Latitude can go anywhere in the world. In this book they leave their overstuffed offices and travel with the famous lumberjack, Paul Bunyan, in search for his great blue ox. Nothing can stop them—not piranhas, ghosts, giants, pirates, or even the evil sea witch, Qalupalik. The trip includes a visit to El Dorado, Atlantis, and New York. They go sailing, spelunking, and they even get to meet Bigfoot!

The workbook includes comprehension worksheets with vocabulary for each chapter of the storybook, along with maps and study questions for each region. Optional worksheets, such as Local Flavor, Sightseeing, and Souvenirs will make imaginations soar.

Explorers to 1815 History Series

Marlin and Laurie Detweiler, G. Tyler and Emily Fischer

Fifth grade history, starting with the explorers, focuses on early America. George Washington and other Founding Fathers appear along with lesser-known yet important characters, like Jonathan Edwards and George Whitefield. Children will enjoy learning the sequence of 32 events that led to the founding of America through the War of 1812 and the Missouri Compromise. They will learn what we didn't in our public school education: that America's founding was greatly influenced by the biblical thinking that produced the Massachusetts Bay Colony and the First Great Awakening. Again, the creative engagement of the Self-Paced course makes it our recommendation. You'll need the history flashcards and should consider the optional historical fiction that accompanies the course.

Squalls Before War: His Majesty's Schooner Sultana

Ned Bustard

In 2001 a full-scale reproduction of a vessel that had sailed the Chesapeake Bay in the years before the American Revolution was launched. The creation of the current Sultana inspired the creation of this historical fiction.

Using extensive research and the actual logs of her tour of the colonies from 1768–1772, a tale is spun about the Royal Navy's smallest schooner. The Boston Massacre, the Great Awakening, the burning of the Gaspee, and even George Washington appear in this book and actually played a part in the Sultana's real slice of America's history. And in the guide, you can learn sailor's knots, read a sermon by George Whitefield, conduct ecological experiments, sing sea shanties and answer questions about the true (and almost true) adventures of Lieutenant John Inglis and Master David Bruce aboard the historic schooner Sultana. History of Art: Creation to Contemporary

God made us creative and on Mount Sinai gave instructions on how to use art. Virtually all cultures have made art, art that reveals its hopes, dreams, and beliefs. And by studying the art of past cultures, we can learn something about ourselves in the present.

History of Art: Creation to Contemporary is a distinctively Christian overview covering well-known works of art, from the Lascaux Cave paintings and Winged Victory to the Mona Lisa and American Gothic. But the program also takes time to focus on art by Christians and about the Christian faith.

This art history curriculum was designed to be flexible in order to add beauty not burden to your students' learning experience. There are at least four ways to use this art history curriculum:

OPTION ONE

Two great works of art are on each of the 32 flashcards, along with information about each art movement studied. The full-color workbook contains comprehension questions, crafts, activities, readings, and features on artists of the faith.

OPTION TWO

Fully integrated with the Veritas History Series (yet able to stand on its own), this art history program can extend from second grade to sixth, to enjoy several cards at a time. Each card has a color bar across the top of the card that matches the history cards, and the overview pages have timelines that use the history card number system to place the art in the proper sequence.

OPTION THREE

The versatility of this curriculum makes it possible to consider using it as a transitional program in 7th grade, because it spans all of Western history. Although full of fun activities for younger kids, the textbook also has in-depth readings for older students about such things as the Golden Mean, perspective, interviews with contemporary artists of faith, and more.

OPTION FOUR

Finally, the art history cards could be used to complement an art program where students are learning to "do" art that you may already be using, mixing them in as a way to add "appreciating" art, its depth and inspiration, while developing basic art skills. Your student will be able to identify all the major art movements in Western art as well as know the titles and artists responsible for over five dozen artistic masterpieces. These movements and works of art are the grammar of art history and will allow the student to navigate nearly every museum of Western art in the world, as well as know how they fit in the study of history. eBooks available

Acts to Revelation Bible Series

Marlin and Laurie Detweiler, G. Tyler and Emily Fischer

Again, we're sorry we don't have a self-paced course or even a forecasted date for this level . . . yet. The epistles and other books studied in this series remain very important to study. They're also fairly approachable for parents to teach in our You Teach format, so jump in!

Teaching the whole Bible is what helps develop the whole child. It won't be as easy as a self-paced course, but it will be worth it. Students will study 32 events, learning about the problems and opportunities of the early Church in the first century. It's an important place for their study, as many of these texts will be part of a deeper dive into theological issues in their next few years. Designed the same way as our history series, described on page 24.

1815 to the Present History Series

Marlin and Laurie Detweiler,
G. Tyler and Emily Fischer

Sixth grade history picks up with a young America and moves quickly into the struggles resulting in the War Between the States and, not long after, World Wars I and II. Inventions, industry, and urbanization will be brought into chronological context. Thirty-two events will be studied concluding with Modern America. They will learn of the great tragedies and great advancements that typified the last 200 years. Our hope, as always, is that they will learn from our history in order to build on it, rather than repeat it because of ignorance. The enjoyment—not to mention the effectiveness of the learning—that most experience with the engagement of the self-paced course makes it our recommendation. You'll need the history flashcards and should consider the optional literature kits that accompany the course. eBooks and MP3s available

6TH LATIN

There are several options for which level of Latin to consider here. Students who excelled at Latin for Children, Level C are ready for Latin I (see page 67). Latin Transition II is recommended for those who have not taken Latin for Children, Level C or have not successfully completed a couple years of Latin. Students who have taken very little Latin or are just beginning are encouraged to take Latin Transition I (see page 63). Following this simple advice will help students excel at this most important discipline.

6/7 TRANSITION

In classical education we talk of the grammar stage ending sometime around the end of 6th grade and the dialectic or logic stage beginning. The fact is, students don't turn off their thinking as grammar students one day and turn on thinking as dialectic students the next. A transition occurs. To aid the transition we offer these tools.

The Study of Things Beautiful

The study of Art is the study of things beautiful. It includes the historic and appreciative as well as the vocational and technical. Learning about the beauty of God's creation by enjoying the rich heritage of visual arts over the millennia never gets old and is benefitted by the study of art appreciation. The ability for a student to connect certain art periods with historic events and philosophies that coincided with art styles can shape a godly worldview greatly.

Likewise, students who take the time to develop their artistic giftedness will find tremendous blessing that accompanies them for their entire lives. Whether they have the potential of a Renoir or Rembrandt or simply to gain basic skills in drawing technique and perspective, they will enjoy the process of moving things from their mind to a visual image.

Communicating with Style and Effectiveness

At Veritas the English department is primarily about writing and composition. Literature courses are part of our integrated humanities program called Omnibus. With a substantial mastery of English grammar and vocabulary, students are asked to hone their writing skills, learning to turn phrases and write in interesting and enjoyable ways that make you want to read what they write.

We are frequently amazed at the writing of our students. It routinely seems beyond their years, and yet it keeps happening. That's the beauty of classical education. Latin, as a tool of leverage for mastering language, coupled with a thorough study of grammar, prepares students to focus on more than basics.

LANGUAGES

Learning the Languages of Our Neighbors—Old and New

Here at Veritas, foreign languages fall into two categories, classical and modern, and they are often studied for two different reasons.

Many study classical languages, Greek and Latin especially, in order to master their own native tongue. More than half of English vocabulary, for example, comes from the classical roots of Greek and Latin, and they are the undisputed foundations of the language we use to talk about law, medicine, government, and the sciences. Further, many view the learning of Latin or Greek as the best preparation for the learning of any other language.

Of course, many learn a modern foreign language for what they perceive to be its practical value: from conducting business across the planet to communicating with their own neighbors at home. Increased globalization certainly favors learning to speak one's own and someone else's language, and some will take on the challenge simply to sharpen their minds.

For whatever the reason, a study of foreign languages is part of any solid classical Christian education, and we are pleased to offer our families many options.

LOGIC & RHETORIC

Thinking Clearly, Communicating Winsomely

These two disciplines should be regarded as the paradigm disciplines for the dialectic and rhetoric stages, respectively. Most of us had no training in either in our education. Learning logic—formal and informal—is nothing short of learning to think. Students who've studied logic can quickly identify a fallacious or shoddy argument, and they can construct a sound one. Who wants to raise a child who cannot reason well?

Rhetoric, as it was understood in antiquity, was a comprehensive art just as much concerned with what one could say as how one might say it. Studying and mastering rhetoric produces students who can communicate winsomely and articulately. This capstone discipline has been ignored for too long. We love seeing our students and yours taking what they've learned and using it to influence their neighbors to the glory of God and the furthering of His kingdom.

We recommend two years of Logic in 7th–9th grades and two years of Rhetoric in 10th–12th grades. Senior Thesis is a very important high school capstone course and should be included. Logic I and Logic II, as described below, is the most recommended track. Some families prefer Associate Logic and curriculum used therein instead of Logic I.

A Rhetoric of Love
 Douglas M. Jones
 Do you want students to simply be able to identify Aristotle's Five Canons and other key elements in communication, or do you want to cause your students to become great communicators? We have felt this problem for more than 25 years. And we've felt another problem—classical rhetoric lacks a necessary distinctively Christian foundation.
 That is why we are so excited about A Rhetoric of Love. It explores the art of effective, persuasive, winsome communication and stands in a tradition that stretches back to Aristotle and other Greek and Roman teachers. But it departs from it, too.

Jesus calls us to love our neighbors as ourselves. A Rhetoric of Love asks how we can do that in our speaking and writing and living. How ought Christ's followers to try to persuade others? How should their rhetorical efforts look different from those of the world around them? How can they listen to others—really listen—and then speak truth in love? Here A Rhetoric of Love offers a corrective. It turns to the Bible for guidance. It seeks to follow and teach the powerful example of Jesus's words and deeds. A Rhetoric of Love shows high school students a better way to persuade.
 This is the answer that classical Christian education has needed. Hard 458p

Quantifying the Beauty of God's Creation

It might seem that math is the one discipline that is unaffected by biblical thinking—that it's neutral as to worldview. Yet how do we know that $2 + 2 = 4$ can (or will) always be true—because God is unchanging. Einstein said, "Pure mathematics is, in its way, the poetry of logical ideas," and with tongue likely planted firmly in his cheek, Andre Weil said, "We know that God exists because mathematics is consistent and we know that the devil exists because we cannot prove the consistency."

At Veritas we are pleased to step up the standard to something closer to an historical norm and to the standard of countries producing higher performing math students. With Algebra I as our recommended 7th grade standard, many students complete Calculus I in high school—both a worthy and reasonable endeavor.

The curriculum we recommend includes options ideally suited for the classically educated student. We continue to offer the Saxon curriculum, which remains in the same format as it was in grammar school. Because it's familiar, you may be more comfortable with it. However, we recommend the track that starts with Jacobs Algebra because we believe it's better for the changing nature of the student, who is now more argumentative and interested in learning through a more dialectic approach. We also recommend Math-U-See, especially for students who struggle with learning abstract concepts.

I USED TO HATE MATH

BY LAURIE DETWEILER

Teaching kids to love learning is a passion of mine. It might surprise you to know that one of the reasons for this is because I used to hate math. My sweet six-year-old granddaughter would quickly remind me that hate is a bad word and one that I should not be saying, but that's what I thought about math. I loved to read; in fact the only time I ever remember being disciplined as a child was for sneaking a flashlight out of a drawer and reading late into the night under my covers.

Math did not come easily to me. It still doesn't. I remember my husband asking me to balance our checkbook shortly after we married. It was a manual process then.

Even though my father was an attorney, a balanced checkbook was not important in our household. My husband, on the other hand, was the son of an accountant and a numbers geek in his own right. He loves math. Wanting to please, I went to work balancing the checkbook and was ten dollars off. Close enough, right? No big deal. You would have thought I had just asked him to cut his arm off. Let's just say this was something we had to work through.

One of my missions when we started

Veritas Press was for children to love all subjects. I am a creative, and it comes out in how I teach. When I read Charlotte's Web with my grandchildren, we went to the museum to see spider webs. We made spider webs. I have even been known to purchase a pet spider. I want things to come alive for little ones.

This year I have had the pleasure of helping to homeschool my granddaughter. Few things make me happier. One day this year, when I picked her up for her lessons, I heard my son talking to my granddaughter about school work. She was not happy. She loves to learn, so this was puzzling. As we drove to my house, she called to me from the back seat, "Where in the Bible does it say you have to do math?" It was so funny, I almost drove into a ditch. At the same time, it made me sad. I knew she didn't like math the way she liked reading and learning vocabulary, but I didn't want her to have my childhood math experiences. I don't want that for any child.

I believe there are two kinds of kids: those who just "get" math and those who work at it. The ones that get it are born with a natural understanding. They can conceptualize things. Abstract thinking comes easily. It doesn't matter what curriculum those kids use for math; they are going to be good at math. Then there are those kids like me. They just don't see it. And they don't see the point of it. Marlin and I had lunch with Steve Demme around 25 years ago. Our youngest son was with us. He was four. Steve got out the Math-U-See blocks he had developed, and I watched as he started teaching our little one fractions. I looked over at my husband and said, "Well, after 35 years it finally makes sense." I wish I had had a teacher like that. Steve's use of manipulatives was like nothing I had ever seen. It just worked. I learned more that day than my son did.

We are so pleased to announce that we are now offering Math-U-See materials. We have added live courses using Math-U-See to our live online course listing.

If you have a student who learns better through visual learning and hands-on experience, this is the curriculum for you.

Don't expect your student who struggles with abstraction to love math if you don't give them a way to do so. Math doesn't have to be the subject that causes a child to ask, "Where in the Bible does it say I have to do math?" With Math-U-See, you will have your children begging to do math.

And—you won't believe this—I love to do the bank reconciliation now.

Calculus: Early Transcendental Functions

Larson, Hostetler, Edwards

Designed for a two- or three-semester college calculus sequence, this text easily offers two years worth of calculus for the high school student. It is an extraordinary introduction to trigonometric, exponential, logarithmic, and inverse functions and integrates these functions at earlier points in the text than some others do, providing for a richer variety of applications sooner in the course.

Calculus: Early Transcendental Functions

Larson, Hostetler, Edwards

Designed for a two- or three-semester college calculus sequence, this text easily offers two years worth of calculus for the high school student. It is an extraordinary introduction to trigonometric, exponential, logarithmic, and inverse functions and integrates these functions at earlier points in the text than some others do, providing for a richer variety of applications sooner in the course.

Teach your children to think biblically about everything!

OMNIBUS IS A GREAT BOOKS CURRICULUM FOR GRADES 7–12 THAT TEACHES STUDENTS THE LESSONS FROM THE PAST IN ORDER TO LIVE IN THE PRESENT

Teaching children to think biblically about everything is one of the hardest jobs parents and teachers have. Learning from the past to live in the present might be second hardest. By tapping some of the greatest thinkers alive, Veritas produced the Omnibus, a Great Books curriculum for grades 7–12 that grounds students in their faith.

Omnibus is a Latin term meaning “all-encompassing.” Each year of the Omnibus curriculum combines history, theology, and literature to help students grow in their appreciation of the unity of all knowledge.

The Omnibus includes six years with two courses per year. The Primary books course focuses closely on primary-source historical works and events from the time period covered. The Secondary course offers a lighter workload and balances out the course with a greater focus on literature and theology. Taken together, students will earn three credits: one each in history, theology, and literature.

For example: As part of Omnibus I Primary, students delve into the works of Plato, dealing with the Socratic Method. In Omnibus I Secondary, some reading includes modern works by Peter Kreeft, presenting fictional conversations between Socrates, abortionists, and university professors. This integrated, classical approach equips students with both an in-depth knowledge of history and the Great Books, while training them in the skills needed to process and articulate the meaning of this knowledge through the prism of a Christian worldview.

Students completing all six years of Omnibus Primary and Secondary courses will have the added benefit of the in-depth study of all 66 books of the Bible. They will also run through a three-year cycle of history—ancient, medieval, modern—twice, once with the first three years and again with the second three. Many ask, “Can we do only a year or a few years, or only primary, or only secondary courses?” Our answer is the same: Any study of the Great Books to learn to think biblically about everything will be of great value. Whether you plan to do all twelve classes or only one, students will benefit for the rest of their lives by joining the “Great Conversation.”

Learning can happen in all three formats: You Teach, Self-Paced, and Live Online

OMNIBUS IS . . .

1 TEXTBOOK

Omnibus is the study of History, Literature, and Theology all in one discipline. You'll be amazed at just how much students learn.

2 COURSES

Omnibus Students take two courses: Omnibus Primary and Omnibus Secondary

3 CREDITS

Students who complete both Omnibus Primary and Secondary classes in the same year receive credits for History, Theology, and Literature

Understanding God's Creation

Understanding God's creation and how He providentially superintends His world is at the heart of how we view learning science. Scientist Johannes Kepler described science as "thinking God's thoughts after Him." Albert Einstein said, "Everyone who is seriously interested in the pursuit of science becomes convinced that a spirit is manifest in the laws of the universe—a spirit vastly superior to man, and one in the face of which our modest powers must feel humble." And Blaise Pascal, French philosopher, mathematician, and scientist, wrote in Pensees, a book studied in Omnibus VI, "Faith tells us what the senses cannot, but it is not contrary to their findings. It simply transcends, without contradicting them."

We cannot avoid studying science, nor can we pretend that the science we study can be understood apart from God. Enjoying the wonder of the world in which we live helps us understand attributes and aspects of our God. It is a great complement to understanding the Scriptures He's provided us.

Novare Earth Science is designed to foster a sense of wonder and responsibility for God's world. Landforms, minerals, and planetary phenomena, along with many timely and important topics, are covered, including conservation of natural resources, climate change, pollution, and environmental justice. Students will learn to appreciate the intricacy and excellence of God's works, as the text ties in Scripture without becoming heavy-handed. Note: The author takes an old-earth view. Young-earth perspectives should be supplemented by the teacher.

This curriculum from Novare is organized around mastery, integration, and kingdom perspective. Topics covered include types of matter, energy, order, and design in creation, forces and fields, measurement, motion, sound and light, electricity and magnetism, and the nature of scientific knowledge. The teacher's version of the experiment is included in the digital resources. Some experiments are demonstrated on YouTube videos. Students love the narrative's personal style, in which the author concisely and accurately explains the concepts with wonder and excitement at the marvels of God's world.

Student instructions for five complete laboratory experiments are included in the appendix. Teachers instructions are included in the supplemental book. The publisher uses this course as early as 7th grade. It is not a complete high school

Modeling Nature

Especially suited to college-preparatory STEM programs. Each chapter includes plenty of exercises and clearly defined learning objectives. Integration of historical background enhances awareness of the legacy and present-day community of scientists. The text covers the entire AP curriculum with a small number of exceptions. It employs vector calculations and assumes students have completed trigonometry. Problems are not calculus-based, but makes calculus connections.

If You Can Keep It:
The Forgotten
Promise of American Liberty

Eric Metaxas

All Christians—especially those leading the next generation—need to read this book.

For the first time we understand (and embrace) what should be meant by American Exceptionalism. It's not any form of elitism. Rather, it's a gift from God to be shared. And that's not the only incredible insight the book offers. Our opportunity to educate young people is precious. This book details more reasons why that is so. Raising up leaders who know what we Americans were given by our founders has never been more crucial. Soft 272p

Recovering the Lost Tools of Learning

Douglas Wilson

In this literally life-changing book Wilson eloquently makes the iron-clad case for the necessity to educate our children in a Christian school or home school, and he does so while introducing the successes of the past using methodology and content known as classical Christian education.

Virtually all involved in the entire movement intent on recovering these time proven ideas and methods owe their beginning to Wilson's writing in this work. It is a must for all who would see education recover and godliness prevail in the rearing of the next generation.
